

The Blue Hour

by Michele Vance Hehir

Content Warnings

Pg13+

“The Blue Hour” contains some gunshots and sensitive subject matter. Below you will find more information that does not include important plot points.

For more information, including spoilers, please scroll to page 2.

- There is a pedophile in the play.
- There is a suicide.
- There are conversations about miscarriage.
- There is respectful and challenging religious content.
- There is a murder in the play.

Content Warnings (Expanded)

- There is a pedophile in the play. There's an inappropriate sexual relationship between a pastor and a 15 year old girl - no nudity or explicit sexual content.
- There is a suicide. The 15 year old drowns herself - it happens offstage.
- There are conversations about miscarriage. A pregnant woman in the play talks about having miscarriages in the past.
- There is respectful and challenging religious content. The play takes place in a town with a Pentecostal Church and most of the town's people are devout Pentecostals. There are scripture quotes and some Christian music.
- There is a murder in the play. A man is shot with a rifle followed instantly by a blackout.

If you would like to discuss any of these warnings further, do not hesitate to email us at info@skirtsafire.com.